

A diverse group of business and governmental leaders as well as energy and environmental experts from across North America will gather at Crystal Mountain once again in November for a summit focused on creating a more sustainable future for Michigan. Over 200 attended last November's conference including Tony Earley, CEO of DTE Energy, and Richard Heinberg, world-renowned expert on Peak Oil. For more information on this year's conference visit futuremichigan.com.